

New Jersey's "Do Not Call" protocol is working well and there is no legitimate reason for the Feds to weaken it (except, of course, to bow to the wishes of business interests).